VOL. 16, NO. 27

RAY STADIUM, MISSISSIPPI

SUNDAY, APRIL 6, 1967

By EDWINA HEATHCOCK.

A discrimination lawsuit filed against the City of St. Louis by a former police officer is settled.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz said an agreement has been signed but is not yet entered as a court decree.

The suit alleged the officers were to be treated as a civil servant, demanding the suit in the near future was added.

The suit filed by Robert Butler, claimed the city had discriminated in not allowing him to join police union in October 1981, that the union was organized for filing the complaint.

The discrimination suit was filed with the Human Resources Opportunity Commission in October 1981. Butler was suspended from the police department in December for "being unbecoming an officer."

He threatened the retaliatory suit.

But O'Connell said in Butler's favor in both cases but declined to take legal action.

Francisiewicz said city officials decided to settle as a compromise because it appeared to be in the best interest of the city.

However, Francisiewicz emphasized there was no admission of liability in the settlement which clearly states it "shall not be any manner be construed as an admission of any liability on the part of any party named herein, but is merely a compromise settlement of an act that occurred during the city administration of the former mayor, Larry Haddad."

From the city's standpoint it is merely a financial compromise, we settled out of court because it cost less than going to trial," Francisiewicz said.

"We feel our position in court would have been weak in the retaliatory part of the lawsuit, he said.

"In the discrimination complaint, Butler did not have a chance. The city would have won that part hands down," he said.

Butler filed a suit in October 1985.

down, because there was not one shred of evidence on any discrimination," Frankiewicz said.

However in the retaliatory portion of the suit, the city's position was weak, he said.

"Mayor Bennett was absolutely justified in suspending Butler but it was a serious error in judgement to suspend Butler while the EEOC complaint was pending," Frankiewicz said.

The timing of Butler's suspension opened the door to allow him to take advantage of the law that prohibits the city from retaliating against someone who files a complaint with EEOC, he added.

"In my opinion this is where the law is a joke because it does not care whether the individual involved deserved to be suspended, at this point the law mostly concentrates on whether the suspension occurred after the complaint was filed," the mayor stated.

"Even though Bennett was fully justified in suspending Butler, he did to the job in properly documenting the action and the timing was lost," Frankiewicz said.

The lawsuit: Butler asked for wages with all reasonable raises, increases and bonuses, compensation for all lost benefits, compensation for emotional, physical and mental distress, payment of all attorney's fees, cost and interest and punitive damages and reinstatement in the police department.

"The most serious among his requests was that of reinstatement with full seniority," Frankiewicz said.

"This is the other reason the city decided to settle out of court," he said.

In addition to being the least costly way to handle the suit, it also insured we did not have to go to court and face the possibility of the court ordering us to put Butler back on the police force," Frankiewicz said.

"It was that would be an unacceptable risk to the public," he added.

The city settled with Butler for $14,000.

"The only real difference now is that we have picked up two dump sites, one in the northern part of East Three and one in the southern end of East Two, that were formerly run by the road and bridge department," he said.

The beach and seawall crew, created shortly before the unit system was initiated by voter referendum, has been transferred from the road and bridge account to the seawall tax account, he added.

shipyard located at Bayou Cadet. The craft in the background was the first to be hoisted by the Marine Travelift and weighed 51 tons. The shipyard will offer a complete marine service and currently 12 employees but the work force is expected to expand in the near future, Ladner stated. When the grounds are completed, space will be available to place up to 100 boats in drydock. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Braille, talking books available to handicapped

Did you know there is a free service available in Mississippi of which many people are unaware? A special library is located in Jackson and serves the state, enabling people who have a bodily handicap, a sight deficiency or a reading disability, the ability to read again through "talking books."
The library is the Mississippi Handicapped Readers' Library. The library is a division of the Mississippi Library Commission. It receives recorded books from Library of Congress and also has a volunteer support group that tapes a wide variety of books and magazines. Once a person makes application for the service, the recorded tapes or braille books are sent to them by mail - and the service is free under United States Law.

Many of the people the medical community treats everyday could benefit so much from the service. In many instances for the homebound elderly, talking books are the only means of keeping up with current events; and students with reading disabilities have shown marked improvement in their grades at school when utilizing talking books. Whether temporarily or permanently disabled, talking books can help people stay mentally alert and satisfied.
The Junior League of Jackson has teamed with the Handicapped Readers Library to launch a public awareness campaign. Governor Bill Allain has proclaimed March 1987 as "Handicapped Readers Month."

It is our hope that many people eligible for the service will begin to seek applications.
The public awareness campaign will be targeting hospitals, nursing homes, and county clinics where packets of applications and brochures have been sent. Through the media we hope to reach doctors, nurses, and professionals who treat or teach individuals who are handicapped readers.
We are sending the message: Make it a brighter day for someone you know by introducing them to recorded books.
The Library for Handicapped Readers is located at 545 Executive Place, Jackson, Mississippi; telephone 354-7446.

President cites Shriner philanthropy

John S. Topp illustrious potentate of Joppa Shrine Temple, Gulfport reports President Ronald Reagan has cited the Shriners of North America for their philanthropy.
The President particularly noted their help in alleviating pain and suffering of El Salvador children during a devastating earthquake which hit that country.
Topp said, "according to Eric Johnson, the President's Private Sector Initiatives Program Director, the Shrine fraternity has demonstrated a strong public community spirit and shows how effective the private sector can be in addressing public needs.

Topp read the President's citation at Joppa's March meeting, which had been sent to Gene Bracewell, chairman of the board, Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children, International Shrine Headquarters in Tampa, Fla.
Doctor Russell H. Anthony, imperial potentate of the Shrine fraternity, said, "We are extremely proud to be singled out for such a high honor. We have always taken a great pride in the service we have been able to provide to communities across the United States, as well as Canada and Mexico."

Potentate Topp said, "In 1985, the Shrine of North America was awarded the American Hospital Association citation for meritorious service for outstanding medical care it had provided through Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children."

WAVING OFF SPRING—In spite of late-falling, an again-off again cold temperatures and snowstorms, the sign of spring persists in the area. Always welcome in early spring are the brilliant sunsets and vibrant blossoms, but Sylvia and Lisa Peterson of Robert Street in Waveland keep a wary eye on another sign of spring not as readily acceptable as the Dewors—a massive swarm of honey bees in their front yard. A neighboring beekeeper told the Petersons the swarm is composed of Italian bees which probably migrated from the Market Street area of Waveland. (Echo staff photo by Edgar Fikes)

Quotables by CUEVAS

If you turned over this morning and looked at the old time piece and thought it was early, you could have been mistaken in case you failed to advance your clocks last night.

Daylight Saving Time came early this year, and it may be later than you think.

Indications are that the Hancock County March of Dimes Jail and Bail was a success. Of course the final tally won't be known until pledges are mailed in.

It took the efforts of many people to make this very worthwhile benefit a success.

This included the organizers, many volunteers, 'arrestees,' 'judges,' police officers, and most important those making pledges to help their friends get out of 'jail.'

Special thanks goes to everyone who helped in any way whatsoever.

This week of April 6-10, School Attendance Week is being celebrated in Mississippi.

Many activities are sponsored by the Mississippi Association of School Attendance Officers-Counselors and the Commission for Children and Youth, Governor's Office of Federal-State Programs.

School attendance is very important for all children who should try to obtain the best education possible.

Education is one of the most important requirements today in seeking jobs.

We urge all parents to emphasize the importance of remaining in school to their children.

This decade will be the first in American history when children on the average will have less education than their parents.

All we can say to our youth is stay in school and learn as much as you can.

United States Senator

Thad Cochran

Senator Thad Cochran is dispatching his mobile office staff to six Mississippi Gulf Coast area counties on April 21-22.

On Tuesday, April 21, the senator's mobile office staff will be at the Hancock County Courthouse in Bay St. Louis at 11 a.m., the Harrison County Courthouse in Gulfport at 2 p.m., and the Harrison County Courthouse in Biloxi at 4 p.m.

On Wednesday, April 22, the mobile office staff will be at the Jackson County Courthouse in Pascagoula at 9 a.m., the George County Courthouse in Lucedale at 11 a.m., and the Stone County Courthouse in Wiggins at 1:30 p.m.

Citizens who may wish to discuss an issue before the 100th Congress, or a case situation involving a federal agency, are invited to stop by and confer with the Senator's staff. Interested persons should contact the Chancery Clerk's office for exact location at the courthouse in their respective area. The mobile office will be at each stop for about one hour.

Senator Thad Cochran is urging prompt Senate action this week to pass the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1987.

"This bill is urgently needed to get highway construction and other transportation work around the country underway. It is very important to the state of Mississippi," he commented.

The Senate was scheduled to take up the bill, passed earlier by the House, and Senator Cochran said he hoped the chamber could complete action on it "as soon as possible."

The bill is similar to one passed last year by the Senate, but which died in a House-Senate conference committee as the 99th Congress adjourned.

It provides for $52.4 billion in new authorizations for federal highway programs, financed from the Highway Trust Fund, over the next four years.

Also, the Senate Finance Committee has approved a package to fund the program by extending for 1987-1990 the existing road-related taxes and user fees that go into the Highway Trust Fund.

The Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee has approved a bill reauthorizing $12.8 billion in mass transit programs for the next four years.

Both the Finance Committee funding extension and the mass transit bills are expected to be offered as floor amendments to S. 387, the Federal Aid Highway Act of 1987.

"This legislation would continue providing much-needed federal highway and transportation money to help strengthen our transportation and road systems in Mississippi," Senator Cochran said.

Senator Cochran, a member of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee on Transportation, said "many Mississippi officials and citizens have contacted us, urging passage as soon as possible for this crucial bill."

Weekly Summary
from

Mississippi House of Representatives

By Andrew Reese
House Information Officer

JACKSON—A push to end the 1987 legislative session was underway this week as House of Representatives members worked to wrap up last-minute chores and complete action on remaining bills and resolutions.

A lot of attention in the closing days has been on appropriations and general bills passed earlier by both House and Senate but in different forms. The bills were sent to House-Senate conference committees to resolve differences as the session began winding down.

This is part of the legislative process. It is not unusual for numerous bills to be sent to conference as a session nears completion, assuring that divergent views have a last chance to be aired. More than 200 bills were in conference at one point last week, including about 135 appropriations to fund state agencies and institutions in the coming year. However, conferees had reached agreement by the close of the week on many of them.

If all goes according to schedule, the 90-day session was due to wind up this week with Sunday, April 5, set for sine die adjournment.

The allocation of funds to operate schools, universities, health programs and various state agencies and institutions is always one of the biggest jobs of a session. The task has been especially difficult in recent years in view of economic problems resulting from such factors as the nationwide farm crisis and oil and gas industry slump.

It was again necessary in the 1987 session to hold down spending to see that expenditures in the coming year do not exceed projected income. Last week the final touches were being put on an estimated $1.6 billion general fund budget. Even with the tight money situation, it appeared the Legislature would manage to provide some additional funding for badly needed textbooks, faculty and staff salaries at the universities and junior colleges, and a modest pay hike for state employees.

Earlier in the month, the Legislative Budget Committee and Fiscal Management Board voted to raise revenue estimates for the coming year by approximately $43 million.

Several bills won final approval last week including a measure giving the State Board of Education more flexibility in deciding at which grade levels to administer basic literacy tests. The bill is part of a continuing effort to see that students can meet minimum standards in reading, writing and mathematics before graduating from high school.

The student testing program, established under the 1982 Education Reform Act, currently provides for basic skills testing in grades 4, 8 and 11. Under the new law, the Education Board will determine the grades in which to give the tests. The legislation was approved earlier by both chambers but in slightly different forms, and the Senate approved last week to accept House amendments.

Lawmakers also completed work on a compromise bill establishing a procedure for citizens to contest the disqualification of signatures on petitions requesting a local referendum on public issues. The bill includes a requirement that a list of disqualified names, and the reason for disqualification, be posted at the courthouse or city hall.

Other measures released to the governor last week included a bill to establish a special residential school on the campus of Mississippi University for Women for gifted math and science high school students; a measure to help crime victims by providing a victim "impact" statement prior to the sentencing of a convicted offender; and a bill designating English as the "official" state language in Mississippi.

Among the major bills recently signed by the governor was the act to revise state laws involving property and casualty insurance rates and create an insurance underwriting pool to help people in rural areas.

The House gave the go-ahead last week to a proposed school nurse intervention program for school districts that choose to participate. The program is designed to help deal with the problem of teenage pregnancies and offer other preventive health services to young people.

The House also approved a bill to extend the Mississippi Egg Marketing Board, and voted to go to conference on a proposed constitutional amendment to abolish the La Basse fund trustee from the state College Board. The Senate had amended the proposal to eliminate two positions from the Board and reduce the terms of Board members.

Another in a series of bills to update Mississippi's business laws was passed by the House. The measure is designed to help encourage corporations to come to the state.

A bill providing for disbursement of $13.5 million annually to cities and towns cleared the House and went to the Senate. The legislation, in effect, would reduce money now going to municipalities as their share of the tax on motor fuel, which is being assessed as part of the revenue changes in the 1987 highway construction act.

IN CONGRESS

By Cong. Trent Lott

The need to revitalize rural America

We have a problem in Mississippi and across America in attending to the needs of our rural communities.

This was brought home to me recently when I visited with members of the Deep Hollow Volunteer Fire Department in Pearl River County about the scarcity, availability and cost of fire insurance for rural homeowners and businesses.

That same week, my colleague Tom Tanke who represents Cedar Rapids, Iowa, appeared before the congressional Rural Caucus to appeal for a study on the delivery of services to rural communities.

And in the middle of the week when President Reagan came to Capitol Hill to meet with the Republican members of the House of Representatives, my colleague Steve Gunderson who is the Congressman for Black River Falls, Wisconsin, asked the President to place special emphasis over the next two years on the needs of rural America.

This new beginning of a debate among citizens and public officials on coping with changes in our rural areas is a positive sign. Rural America has lost jobs over the last decade. The income gap between rural and urban areas is increasing, and some small towns across America are in danger of disappearing.

There is a role that the federal government can play in revitalizing those parts of rural America which are hurting by providing incentives for industry to locate in distressed areas and by reviewing the availability of rural housing, the quality of teachers and schools, as well as the quality of doctors and medical facilities.

The availability of insurance for rural residents is one very pressing problem in Mississippi. In some areas considered high risk because of the lack of fire hydrants or water sources and the distance from cities or fire departments, insurance is almost impossible to obtain. When it is available, rural residents pay high premiums for less than the maximum coverage needed to adequately insure their homes or businesses.

The problem of insurance is primarily a local and state problem, although I think the federal government should try to be of assistance, particularly to local volunteer fire departments in the acquisition of needed firefighting equipment.

I am pleased that the Mississippi Legislature has adopted legislation, already signed by the Governor, to help small businesses and individual homeowners get insurance in Mississippi.

The bill, among other things, would create an insurance pool to provide for rural property owners and would allow insurance companies to give policy holders more discounts for safety measures found in their homes. While it does not promise to lower rates totally, it is intended to create competition among insurance companies in Mississippi to allow them to write more flexible contracts which have not been limited.

We need to pay attention to this and other concerns of our rural areas, already impacted by farm problems. We need to help our volunteer fire departments in communities like Deep Hollow, and we should consider the creation of fire districts.

At the bottom line is that we must make sure that the laws are there so that insurance and other vital services always will be available in rural America.

Decision-making time for the 1987 elections

It may be a bit early, but Mississippians are already looking ahead to one of their favorite past times - the game of politics which will be played this summer and fall.

This is election year in Mississippi with party primaries to be held in August and general elections for most state and county offices set for November.

The coming year is already under way with voters beginning to identify the candidates for the office of governor and the other members of the executive branch. The Legislature is also in session, and the state's political scene is beginning to take shape.

The election year will be several months away, but it is already beginning giving serious consideration to citizen participation in the election process. Mississippians interested in their government will want to consider these questions:

1. Should I become a candidate?
2. Should I encourage a qualified friend or associate to become a candidate?
3. Should I become actively involved in the campaign of a candidate?
4. Should I encourage a qualified friend or associate to become a candidate?

HNC Student Council urges 'Don't Drink and Drive'

The Hancock North Central Student Council is sponsoring a week of emphasis on "Don't Drink and Drive," April 6-10 in conjunction with the Reader's Digest Foundation's Don't Drink and Drive Challenge.

Some of the activities planned include signs with slogans that were entered in a contest last week, parking a wrecked car in front of the school to show the effects of drinking and driving, and Contracts for Life, which both the parent and student must sign.

The Student Council will also try to organize a MADD Chapter and a SADD Chapter.

The highlight of the week will be three original skits presented before the student body by the Senior AP English Class.

On April 16 there will be a presentation of the powerful drama, "Amber Lights."

Not only is the Student Council trying to educate the students, but they are also asking for the support and cooperation of the local communities as well, according to council member Rory King.

Surgeon general supports smoker segregation

NEW ORLEANS—Smoking remains the number one killer in this country, making segregation of smokers from nonsmokers a highly desirable goal.

Surgeon General C. Everett Koop said recently in New Orleans. "You simply cannot keep the non-smoker safe when he is in the same room with a smoker."

Koop, the most visible anti-smoking spokesman in the nation, was in New Orleans as the keynote speaker at a two-day symposium entitled "Smoking, Disease, and their Management." The program, sponsored by the Ochsner Medical Institutions, highlighted the latest medical findings concerning smoking health risks.

Recently, Koop pointed out that smokers were hurting not just themselves but their non-smoking neighbors, as well. He cited studies that showed that passive smoking—smoke non-smokers inhale—could be harmful to others.

In an Ochsner press conference that preceded his talk to physicians at the symposium, Koop restated his concerns on involuntary smoking, focusing on the need to protect non-smokers at the workplace.

"There are tremendous advantages to banning smoking at the workplace," he said. "Two-thirds of any workforce in general is composed of nonsmokers. When an employer moves to order a smoking ban, he's pleasing two-thirds of his employees."

Koop explained that the bottom line for the employer is his cleaning bill goes down, his fire insurance premium falls, and the accident rate declines, as does employee absenteeism because of illness. The employer also spends 50 percent less on health care of his employees, he said.

The American Cancer Society estimates that potentially 5,000 non-smokers die each year due to passive smoking.

Since his tenure as surgeon general began, Koop said over 400 anti-smoking ordinances have been enacted by states, municipalities, counties, and townships across the nation.

Also, he pointed out, the federal government has put into place stringent rules about employee smoking. He cited the city of Beverly Hills, Calif., which has banned smoking from all restaurants.

"We're on a roll," said Koop. "I think we are going to win." Recently, the transportation department refused to ban smoking on airlines and the American Bar Association decided not to support a resolution banning all cigarette advertising. Koop said neither case was perceived as a setback.

He attributed the failure to win a no-smoking policy on airlines to the fact that statistical information was not included with a report sent to the government agency.

"At the moment, we are in the process of trying to gather those statistics to embellish that report," Koop said, citing studies that are being conducted on flight attendants on flights of four hours or more.

"It is my prediction that we can prove, just as we have for people who are in a confined workplace area, that those young men and women, especially those in the art gallery where smoke is the heaviest, are probably smoking (literally) several cigarettes on each of those flights."

On the advertising issue, Koop said the ban was not directed at the addicted smoker who has great trouble kicking the nicotine habit, but the enforcement advertising offered to young people who have not yet begun to smoke.

Statistics from 37 countries that have already banned smoking advertising prove that fewer youngsters are starting the habit," he said. "If we can keep youngsters from starting, it is much easier to control this health problem than if we try to talk to a nicotine addict and try to get him to change his ways."

Fifty-four million Americans are addicted to cigarettes and many attempt to quit each year. But within five years, over 60 percent resume the habit, Koop said that with proper motivation, people can quit, and that statistics prove that those who quit cold turkey probably have the best success. "Many people say I've smoked too long and shouldn't bother now. Our message is no matter when you quit you are buying better health," he said.

In 1987 alone, nearly 3,000 smokers in Louisiana will develop lung cancer, says Leonard G. Hudzinski, Ph.D., director of the Ochsner Center for Elimination of Smoking and director of the symposium. He says about 2,700 deaths will be attributed to smoking.

New map index, catalog available for Mississippi

A new index and companion catalog of the 1,000 topographic and related maps of Mississippi available from the U.S. Geological Survey have been issued by the USGS, the nation's principal civilian mapping agency.

The "Mississippi Index to Topographic and Other Map Coverage" and the "Mississippi Catalog of Topographic and Other Published Maps" were designed to make users in selecting and purchasing maps of the state.

The index and catalog are in booklet form that replace the old single-sheet index, and are the first of their kind for Mississippi. Neither index and catalog have been issued for any other state and will be available for all 50 states by late 1987.

"All topographic and related USGS maps of Mississippi are included in this new index and catalog," said a USGS spokesman. "The index and catalog include all topographic, shaded relief, and other maps, as well as land-use and land-cover maps," said Lowell H. Brown, Assistant Chief of the USGS National Mapping Division. "The old style index didn't show or list all of the 37 different USGS map products currently available to the public."

The new Mississippi index and catalog also list United States maps, county maps, national park maps, National Atlas maps, world maps, orthophotographs, orthophotomaps and special maps that include all or part of Mississippi.

"The catalog can be efficiently and economically updated by computer and re-issued as needed," Starr said, "but the index does not have to be updated."

The Mississippi catalog contains listing for all USGS maps and other maps of the state. The catalog also lists all USGS maps and other maps of the state. The catalog also lists all USGS maps and other maps of the state.

Single copies of the new Mississippi index and catalog are available free from the U.S. Geological Survey, Map Distribution, Box 24286, Federal Center, Denver, Colo. 80225, telephone (303) 236-7477. Copies can also be obtained from authorized USGS map dealers listed in the catalog or listed in local telephone yellow pages under "Maps."

As the nation's largest civilian mapping agency, the USGS expects to sell more than 7 million copies of its more than 70,000 published topographic and thematic maps in 1987.

Cystic Fibrosis chairmen named

Official chairmen have been selected for the Mississippi Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation's spring bike-a-thons and other fund-raising events.

Local chairpersons include Mrs. Frank McNeil of 451 Longfellow, Bay St. Louis and Mrs. Stephanie Holden of P.O. Box 343, Pearlinton.

"The volunteer spirit is vital in helping the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation complete its mission in finding better controls and a cure for cystic fibrosis," said James E. Shumaker, Jr., of Canton, president of the Mississippi Cystic Fibrosis Chapter. "Cystic fibrosis is an incurable genetic disease which primarily affects the lungs and digestive systems of thousands of children and young adults. Thanks to the past fund-raising campaigns held in our community, tremendous strides have been made toward finding this cure. Our scientists are calling cystic fibrosis the polio of the '80's since continued research could result in the elimination of this disease."

"Community chairmen are the key to our goal of finding this cure," Shumaker expalined, adding that "your community event is one of many held in Mississippi, and combined, these A-thons raise thousands of dollars to fight this now fatal disease. I urge each citizen to contact your community chairman and become involved in this statewide effort."

The money raised in these events will help fund research to determine the genetic causes and improved treatments for cystic fibrosis, the nation's number one genetic killer of children and young adults. Advances funded by community events have brought the cure for cystic fibrosis within sight.

"Remember to contact your chairman and participate in these fun and fund-raising events. We urge you to accept the challenge and share in the victory over cystic fibrosis," Shumaker concluded.

For a financial report or printed materials on signs and symptoms of cystic fibrosis, call the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation, toll-free, at 1-800-FIGHT-CF.

effective for long distances," he said.

Despite the rain, Johnson said major drainage work in several areas including the east and west sides of southern Highway 603 and the Springwood Park, Cedar Pass and Bayou LaCroix areas has been completed. More work is planned in and near BaySide Park.

Additional work projections include widening Clermont Harbor Boulevard.

Generally, road work in all areas of the county has been mostly for draining roads and repairing washouts to keep the roads passable during wet weather, Johnson said.

"In the south end of the county we found we had a problem with boggy areas, and we have had to do lots of work in low areas that suffer from tidal flooding," he added.

Spending, a problem discussed at several board of supervisors meetings and expected to be one of the meeting topics on Monday, has been reduced, Johnson stated.

He plans to present a monthly report to the board to explain how those reductions have been made.

"The overspending was in two particular areas, equipment repair and wet weather road maintenance," he commented.

Johnson has previously told the board much of the county equipment needed repairs when the unit system began. Once major repairs were completed and construction of the county's central barn at KBA allowed in-house work on less specialized break-downs, the cost began to drop. As for wet weather-type road work, the heavy rains have apparently decreased and those expenses are expected to do the same.

"All we have really tried to do there is help people in those areas that were almost impassable," he said.

The March docket for road and bridge is about $61,000 without counting a payroll of about $40,000, according to County Comptroller Ken Walker, who is working on an amended budget for the department. Johnson said the payroll is down from about $60,000 and has been reduced through transferring some payroll to other funds, such as seawall tax.

Some of the items on the docket are costs that pre-dated the unit system, such as charges for equipment purchased while Hancock County was on the best system but not completely paid off when the transition was made.

There are also some transactions of road and bridge monies, about $17,000, according to Johnson, that used to be made to Bay St. Louis and Waveland in the form of in-kind services but are now paid as cash.

According to Walker, the original road and bridge budget was $915,000, with $79,000 in additional funds for the central barn and $182,000 in carryovers to cover fiscal year 1984 expenses not completely paid off yet.

$331,000, including payroll, has been spent during the first six months of the unit system.

About $275,000 is left for the rest of the fiscal year, Walker said.

Not including payroll, which until March has been running about $40,000 per month, spending totaled $190,000 in October, $115,000 in November, $97,000 in December, $88,000 in January and $68,000 in February.

The comptroller has previously reported that the carryover had been spent by February.

The board of supervisors meeting begins at 9 a.m. in the upstairs boardroom at the Hancock County Courthouse.

Craftsmen, USM to present international festival

The International Crafts Festival, sponsored by the Craftsmen's Guild of Mississippi and the University of Southern Mississippi are working together to produce a truly magnificent show in 1987.

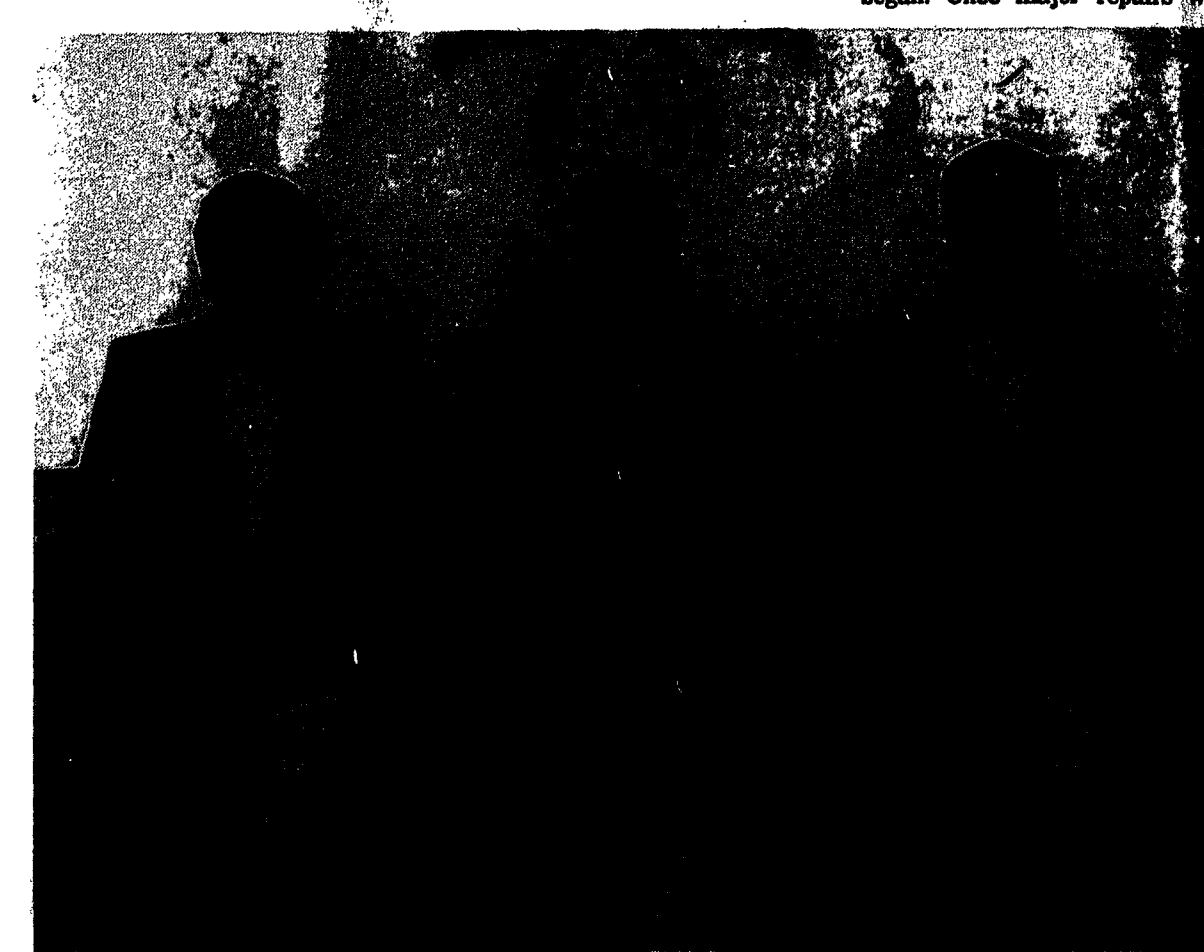

To be located in the Conference Center on the Gulf Park Campus of USM, the show will be staged in two large rooms and outside on the lawn around the Friendship Oak.

The dates this year are May 8, 9 and 10, and May 10 being Mother's Day, what better way to fete mother than to take her out to lunch and then bring her to the International Crafts Festival and let her browse to her heart's content.

On Sunday, the Craftsmen's Guild will also celebrate the 500th birthday of the Friendship Oak, with music and entertainment and a giant birthday cake.

There could be no more appropriate site for a world class crafts festival than the beautiful campus of USM in Long Beach. Mark your calendars now for this annual event.

Music by two Russian composers, Tchaikovsky and Rachmaninoff, will be played on the next edition of "Mississippi Concert Hall," which is scheduled for broadcast on PRM at 9 p.m., Thursday, April 9. A repeat broadcast will air at 1 p.m., Sunday, April 12.

—Featured first is the University of Southern Mississippi's Symphonic Wind Ensemble in Rachmaninoff's "Italian Polka," conducted by Dr. Tom Franchillo. This was recorded at the Performing Arts Center auditorium on the campus in Hattiesburg, Feb. 14, 1987.

—Next, the Tupelo Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Eric Knight, will play a suite from Tchaikovsky's ballet, "The Nutcracker." This suite, familiar to all ballet and music lovers, was recorded December 6, 1986, at the Tupelo Civic Auditorium.

—The last performance is by pianist Betty Young of Jackson, in two Preludes by Sergei Rachmaninoff—Opus 32, No. 13 in minor and No. 5 in G Major. This recording was made from a performance at the Municipal Art Gallery in Jackson, Sept. 14, 1986.

"Mississippi Concert Hall" is broadcast produced by William Franchillo, a division of Jackson PRM, is broadcast from 9 p.m. to 11 p.m.

ETV Briefs

LUCIANO PAVAROTTI
Luciano Pavarotti sings the Verdi Requiem with three winners of the Opera Company of Philadelphia/Luciano Pavarotti International Voice Competition in a rebroadcast at 10 p.m., Wednesday, April 15, on Mississippi ETV. "Pavarotti in the Verdi Requiem: A Salute to Yough" was first broadcast on ETV last summer. The competition winners were Susan Dunn of Bauxite, Arkansas; Paata Burchuladze of the Soviet Union; and Ildiko Komlosi of Hungary. Their prize was the opportunity to sing in public either with Pavarotti in Opera Company of Philadelphia productions or other Company performances. The special public television program was taped in April 1986 at a concert at the Philadelphia Spectrum with Lorin Maazel conducting the Opera Company of Philadelphia Orchestra and a 350-voice chorus.

CHRISTIAN VIRTUES
Paul commanded, "Put on therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, long-suffering." (Col. 3:12)
Who are the elect of God? To Timothy Paul said, "Therefore I endure all things for the elect's sake, that they may also obtain the salvation which is in Christ Jesus with eternal glory." (II Tim. 2:10)
The elect are those who obtain salvation which is in Christ. The word obtain indicates the elect are those who meet certain conditions established by the Lord. Since salvation is in Christ, we need to determine how one gets in Christ. Though baptism must be preceded by faith in Jesus Christ as God's Son, repentance from sins and a confession of faith in Christ before men, baptism in water is the final act which puts one in Christ. Our proof is found in Paul's statement to the Gallatians, "For ye are all children of God by Faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized in Christ have put on Christ." (Gal. 3:27-28)
To the Romans, Paul reminded them of the salvation he and they experienced. "Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death? Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life." (Romans 6:3-4)
The elect are those who have obeyed a form of death, burial and resurrection of Christ. Paul plainly teaches this truth.
"Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death or obedience unto righteousness? But God be thanked, that ye were the servants of sin, but ye obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine which was delivered you. Being then made free from sin, ye became the servants of righteousness." (Romans 6:16-18)

What is the doctrine of which we must obey a form? Paul tells us, "Moreover, brethren, I declare unto you the gospel which I preached unto you, which also ye received, and wherein ye stand; by which also ye are saved, if ye keep in memory what I preached unto you, unless ye have believed in vain. For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures; and that he was buried, and that he arose again the third day according to the scriptures." (I Corinthians 15:1-4)
The death, burial and resurrection is the center, core, foundation of Christianity. If one does not believe these to be facts, he cannot be a Christian or a part of the elect.
In order to be a Christian or listed among the elect one must die to the practice of sin as Christ died on the cross and upon his confession of faith in Christ Jesus as the Son of God to be buried in the watery grave as Christ was buried in the borrowed tomb and arise to live a new life as Christ lived a new after his resurrection from the grave.
Christ shed his blood in his death. When we are baptized into his death spiritually we come in contact with the cleansing blood of Jesus. Water is the element into which we are to be baptized.
Peter asked, "Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized..." (Acts 10:47) The baptism of the great commission is water baptism.

Prefaced by this discussion of whom is the elect will be the discussion of the Christian virtues mentioned in our beginning text. Look for the next article.

THIS WEEK'S BEST SPECIALS

Loiacano double winner in United Way photo contest

Two Martin Marietta Michoud Aerospace employees won awards in a Communications Contest of United Way for the Greater New Orleans Area.

The competition, called "Da Nint' Awards" after New Orleans' famous Ninth Ward, presents winners with Golden Ersters (Oysters).

Jimmy Lolacano of Bay St. Louis won both of this year's first place photography awards, one for black and white print and one for color print. Lolacano is a repeat winner, having taken a Golden Erster in last year's competition for color prints.

Lolacano's winning photos this year will be entered in national competition.

Melodie de Guilbert of Pearl River, La. took first place awards for Best United Way Agency Article and Year Round Communication.

STORY

A five-part television adaptation of Horton Foote's "Story of a Marriage" starring Matthew Broderick and Amanda Plummer will be presented on "American Playhouse" at 9 p.m., Mondays, beginning April 6, on Mississippi ETV.

The drama is based in part on Foote's own family. Set in Texas during the early years of the 20th century, the mini-series traces the relationship between Elizabeth and Horace Robedaux, showing how their love for each other not only sustains them through good times and bad, but also advances the community around them.

Professional dress makes the difference

HATTIESBURG—Professional dress has a significant impact upon the image of individuals who sell services, according to a study by two University of Southern Mississippi faculty members.

Dr. Judith Leslie, an assistant professor of fashion merchandising for the USM School of Home Economics, and Dr. Michael A.

Jones, an assistant professor of marketing, examined the opinions of more than 300 personnel administrators to determine how important dress codes were to their organizations.

"Little attention is devoted in literature to dress as it relates to the marketing of professional services," Leslie said, noting that it has been documented that persons who wear conservative clothing are perceived as being more intelligent, mature, generous, sincere, trustful, understanding and dependable.

"Because the buyer cannot see, touch, taste, smell or feel the true quality of the service he is contemplating buying," Leslie explained, "he might use substitute criteria such as the behavior, physical appearance or other tangible cues."

While only 23 percent of the questionnaire respondents had dress codes formalized in written documents, some 61 percent indicated dress was very important when potential clients or customers evaluate services. About 73 percent said they followed some form of dress code, whether informally communicated or documented.

"We found that appearance is more important to those who sell services instead of tangible products," Jones said, adding, "although the importance varied according to the type industry."

Leslie agreed, saying, "First impressions are made totally on appearance. Dress is a timely topic that probably will become more important as the awareness grows."

"Every geographic area in the country was represented in our survey," Leslie said, noting that respondents included lawyers, accountants, bankers, marketing consultants, hotel and restaurant personnel, entertainment personnel and health care businesses as well as employment services.

"When there is no tangible product, the focus is on the people," Leslie said. "And those who have no dress code must do something else to gain the confidence of potential customers."

Leslie and Jones have submitted their findings as a paper to be presented during the Atlantic Marketing Association annual meeting in New Orleans in October. Leslie said the two plan to submit articles on the subject to marketing and clothing/textile publications as well.
